STAR THEATRE

LULU A. DIETZ, Owner and Manager.

Two Shows Nightly—Matinee Every Saturday at 3
PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY, JUNE 26.

MONDAY—The seventh series of "The Iron Claw," featuring Pearl White, Creighton Hale and Sheldon Lewis in "The Hooded Helper." One reel American screaming comedy, "Some Baby." Drama in four parts, "The Hound of the Baskervilles," adapted from the celebrated novel by Sir A. Conan Doyle. Seven reels in performance.

TUESDAY—Theodore Roberts in a picturization of "Mr. Cress of Monte Carlo." There is a timeliness about this play which lends additional interest to it. It depicts diplomats of Germany and Austria meeting by chance at Monte Carlo for the purpose of arranging an international pact and drawing up a new world map. "Iron Claw" repeated.

WEDNESDAY—William Fox presents Theda Bara in "Destruction." A drama of present-day life, dealing with women whose love of luxury, gratified, plunges thousands of workingmen's families into direct poverty and mental grief.

THURSDAY—Jesse L. Lasky's celebrated production, "The Unknown," a gripping drama of the famous Foreign Legion in Algeria. A thrilling play of adventure in the Sahara desert, in which Lou Tellegen, who recently married Geraldine Farrar, stars. Paramount travels.

FRIDAY—Mrs. Petrova, the gifted emotional actress, will be seen for the first time in Covina in one of the Metro five-act wonder-plays, "What Will People Say?"—a vivid story, based on the novel of the same name, by Rupert Hughes. Pathe news featuring the Masonic Parade in Covina.

SATURDAY—Mary Pickford, today's most popular actress, in a decided different characterization in "A Girl of Yesterday." Glen Martin, the world-famous aviator, makes his first appearance in motion pictures, and Miss Pickford takes her first aeroplane flight. Pathe News featuring the Masonic parade in Covina.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT PLAY APPRECIATED BY LARGE AUDIENCE AT HIGH SCHOOL

Something like six hundred people are grateful to the graduating class of the Covina union high school for an evening of real relaxation and entertainment because of the excellent portrayal of the comedy-drama, "The Man at the Wheel," Wednesday night in the school auditorium. This class play, which is an annual affair, has come to be about the most ambitious evening of all the affairs of commencement week, and this year the play was very happily chosen, in that it fitted the talents of the young people.

The story of the play has a touch of military in it, with several United States army officers figuring, and while mostly light comedy, has a thread of the serious, which involves the proposed sale of plans to an American fortification, the prospective purchaser being a Russian count in the employ of the czar.

The first scene introduced is that of an American court room, where young Robert Worburton is to be tried for an escapade of the night before. While Nancy Worburton is at a ball, her brother Robert disguises himself as his sister's chauffeur, with the idea of playing a joke on his sister, but by mistake gets into the machine of Betty Annesley, one of Washington's society belles. He speeds her down the avenue, and when she alights from the car seizes a kiss, which resulted in his arrest. He is charged with abduction, disorderly conduct, and speeding. Miss Betty appears in the court room, and testifies against him, and afterwards pays his fine. She offers him a job as her chauffeur. This scene introduces Wilbur Nye as the young lieutenant; Miss Anita Speer as Betty, the colonel's daughter; Russell Sloan, a young newspaperman, who is the reporter of this release; Magistrate Watts of the third precinct court, who passes upon the guilt of the young lieutenant; a part played by John Kellenberger; the clerk of the court in the person of Percy Jackson; Officer O'Brien, a part played by Jesse Heath; and Officer Cassidy, a part played by Douglas Wiley.

In this scene the best work was done by John Kellenberger, who succeeded in getting a lot of mock dignity into the conduct of the court-room, adding to it a voice of depth and solemnity that made the scene very realistic. It may be said right here that Kellenberger gave one of the best performances of any of the participants, furnishing his full share of the comedy, and playing every line like a veteran. He was ably abetted in the fun-making by Heath and Wiley of the police squad, with Percy Jackson throwing in his bit at times. After finding the young lieutenant guilty as charged, the judge asks the pretty prosecuting witness if the bogus chauffeur stole anything from her, and she starts to tell him that he took a kiss, but stops before finishing the sentence. The judge insists that the prisoner return whatever it was to the young lady, and this situation is the cause of plenty of comedy. It was a place of good comedy chances, and Miss Speer, Nye and Kellenberger made the most of it.

The scene shifts to Chevy Chase, the beautiful home of Colonel Annesley, where Betty has installed the young lieutenant as her chauffeur. He is wildly in love with her, and she is in a fair way of falling in love herself. The lieutenant's sister comes to call on her friend Betty, bringing with her young Henderson, her betrothed, and they complicate matters for the masquerader. In these scenes another part well played was that of Betty's chum and confidante, Mrs. Conway, which was taken by Miss Ellene Griffiths. Another good comedy part that caused a good deal of merriment was that of Betty's maid, which was finely played by Miss June Sides.

The scenes at the residence introduce Colonel Annesley, played by Roy Harris, and Count Karloff, played by William Warren. The colonel has lost his fortune at Monte Carlo, and has gotten into the grip of the unscrupulous count. The Russian wants the plans of Fortess Monroe, and the colonel, in order to save his fortune for his daughter, has agreed to furnish them. It is a development of these scenes that the young lieutenant discovers the plans, and immediately sees that someone is endeavoring to sell his country's secrets. His foolish escapade turns into a serious situation. Eventually he "foils the villain" by seizing the plans, and uses his own fortune to get the colonel out of his bad predicament. The two chief principals, Wilbur Nye and Anita Speer, were exceptionally good in every line of the play, and they are to be especially commended for the manner in which they handled the love scenes. High school histrionics are quite often good as long as the comedy is in progress, but generally, the young people fall down in love scenes because of self-consciousness. This was not true this time, and the audience was quick to respond with its appreciation.

A very pretty scene was made at the country residence by the introduction of a tennis party. In this scene figured the following: Louella Austin, Hazel Ayers, Eulalia Bainbridge, Charles Berry, Newton Fisher, Louise Fickeworth, Vinnie Johnson, Mildred Moorhead, Ruth Neels, Christabel Parker, Ethel Parker, Helen Patten, Ruth Tally, Lucy Wheeler, and Mildred Worthy.

Another very pretty interpolation was that of the Russian dance, introduced by Miss Nancy Worburton, a character played by Miss Margery Clarke. Miss Clarke played a very engaging part as a foil to the leading lady of the play, and appeared very much to her credit in this dance, known as Plyosavia, a Russian folk dance, taught to the girls by Miss Mildred Price. Those participating were Hazel Ayers, Helen Patten, Mildred Worthy, Louise Fickeworth, Louella Austin, and Margery Clarke.

Another part that possessed only a few opportunities, but which was very well played, was that of Colonel Raleigh, regimental colonel, which was taken by Roland Shaver. In fact, a feature of the play was the good work done by the three parts of elderly gentlemen, the magistrate, the retired colonel, and the colonel of the regiment.

ORCHESTRAL MUSIC.

The orchestra, which was directed by a concert which was pleasing in every way. On the program was the march, "Co-Ed"; waltz, "Skylark"; reverie, "Basket of Roses"; waltz, "My Clarabelle." The members of the orchestra, which also plays this evening at the commencement exercises, are as follows: Donald Warner, piano; Arthur Laun, Paul Langley, Dorothy King, Clayton Nicol, Helen Bainbridge, Myrtle Ayers, Eva Bisbee, violins; Margaret Kaiser, cello; Lucille Matthews, drums and traps; Eda Bentley, bass drum; Ruth Tally, saxophone; Clyde Custer and Roy Harris, clarinets; Eulalia Bainbridge, Ralph Pollard, Mary Temple, William Warren, cornets; James Hodges, baritone; Henry Brown, Ruth Doughty, trombones; Wesley Leighton, Charles Berry, horns; Maude Bentley, bass viol; Wilbur Nye, Francis Dulin, Dorothy Ames, flutes.

CHEMISTRY PRIZES.

An enthusiastic round of applause greeted the announcement by Dr. G. K. Abbott of the winning of the prizes for the best essays on chemistry subjects. This is a feature of commencement that was sustained by Dr. R. Manning Clarke when he was a practicing physician here, and it was assumed by Dr. Abbott on his taking Dr. Clarke's practice. In a few well-chosen words, the doctor announced these prizes, which are high gifts each year. Frank Jessup, son of Mr. and Mrs. Solon Jessup, won first prize with an essay on a chemical analysis connected with a dairy herd. The second prize was won by William Anderson, with an essay on the study of the irrigation water of the Covina district.

CLASS PRESENTATION.

Jesse Heath, president of the class, made a brief speech, in which he presented to Prof. Morgan, as representing the school, the class gift, which is an annual feature. Mr. Heath said that the Covina high school had been winning so many trophies in past years and during the past year, that the trophy cases in the main hall were filled to the doors with silver cups, banners and ribbons. It was necessary to supply another case, and this the class had done. Prof. Morgan made a very able answering address.

The class song was a feature of the closing part of the program, a song set to the music of the popular song, "When I Leave the World Behind." The words were made to be appropriate to the fact that the class of '16 was leaving Covina high school behind.

VALDEZ DISMISSED IN LOCAL JUSTICE COURT.

Frank Valdez, who was arrested this week upon a complaint of failure to provide, had his preliminary hearing before Justice Stafford Thursday morning. His wife, who was supposed to be the principal witness, refused to testify, and the court dismissed the case.

SHALL MEETINGS BE HELD EVERY MONDAY AFTERNOON?

At a called meeting of the Monday Afternoon club last Monday, an invitation to the club for a reception to Mrs. J. E. Cowles was extended. This important social function of women's clubs is to be held at the Ebell clubhouse, on the corner of Seventeenth and Figueroa, Los Angeles, Wednesday, the 28th, and every member of the local club is invited. At a luncheon given at the Friday morning club on the same day, the guests who will represent the Monday Afternoon club are Mrs. S. S. Aschenbrenner, our newly-elected president, and Mrs. C. E. Coman, a member of the board of directors.

The presidency of the national federation of women's clubs of America is the greatest honor that can be bestowed upon a club-woman today. Such an officer is the leader of thousands of high-minded American women, with ideals and ability to accomplish. California is proud to have this honor, and our local club, as a member of both the state federation and the Los Angeles district, where Mrs. Cowles lives and has held office, may share in this pride. Mrs. Cowles is a woman of rare executive ability, tact, and gracious spirit.

The purpose of this called meeting of the Covina club was to present a resolution whereby the meetings for the ensuing year may be every Monday, according to the old regime, instead of every other Monday as has been the custom the present year. The prevailing opinion was that the club should go back to the old order. A meeting is called for next Monday to decide this question.

MRS. CUSHMAN'S FUNERAL, HELD IN LOS ANGELES.

The funeral services of Mrs. Fayo Alice Cushman, wife of Cleveland M. Cushman, were held in the Stewart funeral parlors, Los Angeles, last Monday morning. The Cushman family recently moved to this state from Colorado, and resided in this city at the time of her death. Three children and the young husband are left to mourn the loss of a very thoughtful and affectionate wife and mother. Her death occurred at the hospital where she had been taken for an operation. Mr. Cushman is a brother of H. H. and Earl Cushman of this place, and a son of Mrs. A. W. Cushman, and the relatives and some of the intimate friends from Covina attended the funeral. Rev. S. J. McConnell had charge of the services. The deceased was laid to rest in the I.O.O.F. cemetery in East Los Angeles. The music was by Mrs. Henry Marshall, who sang two comforting solos.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO BISHOP MATT S. HUGHES.

Bishop Matt S. Hughes, for years the most popular Methodist preacher in California, will be tendered a farewell reception by the Methodists of Los Angeles county, at an all day picnic to be held in Ganesha Park, Pomona, on Wednesday, June 28th.

This promises to be the largest gathering of Methodists that has been held in this county for some years. Bishop Waterhouse of the Methodist Episcopal south will also be an honored guest of the day. It is expected that Bishop Hughes will make his farewell address in the morning.

In the evening the Epworth League of Southern California will hold a monster rally and parade from as far distant points as Santa Barbara and San Diego will be present.

Library Closed on Sunday.

On account of repairs and painting, the Covina Public Library will be closed all day on Sunday next. This is the first time that this library has been closed, except on holidays, for fifteen years.

DELIVERY CAR DEMOLISHED BY APPERSON ROADSTER.

A Stevens-Duryea auto belonging to Warner, Whitsel & Company, grocers, is a complete wreck, and two people more or less injured, as the result of what is alleged to be reckless driving on the part of two Japanese, who have given their names as T. Watanabe and K. Nakazawa. The accident happened on Tuesday morning at the intersection of Grand avenue and Cienega avenue.

Grand avenue has recently been completed as a boulevard, and several bad accidents have been narrowly averted from every direction, and the street has been closed for such a length of time that people have gotten out of the habit of looking for cars coming at this corner.

The Japanese, in an Apperson roadster, were traveling on Grand avenue, and C. M. Shrimplin, driver for the grocery company, was going west on Cienega. Shrimplin had with him a Mrs. McCully, a food demonstrator, and he says that he was driving not more than fifteen miles an hour at the corner. The Japanese were driving very rapidly, it is said.

The grocery delivery car was struck and thrown fifty feet. It was almost completely demolished. Shrimplin and Mrs. McCully suffered severe contusions and bruises about the face and body, but the full extent of their injuries has not developed as yet.

The Japanese, who claim they were only driving five miles an hour, had an informal conference with the grocery company, and the matter is in process of settlement.

Recruiting for the National Guard.

Not satisfied with the way recruiting of National Guardsmen has been progressing, Adjutant General C. W. Thomas, on Tuesday dispatched orders to the various company commanders to recruit up to the maximum strength.

Recruiting automobiles were at once dispatched into the valley towns to secure the necessary recruits. Captain Bathy, Company F, 7th Regiment, N. G. C., was in Covina Wednesday and has decided to make this town his headquarters in the San Gabriel valley for recruiting his company to a war footing. He stated that he was anxious to secure from twenty to thirty men from the country district as he has found from experience that the country boy is more alert and active than the city men and better qualified for a non-commissioned officer.

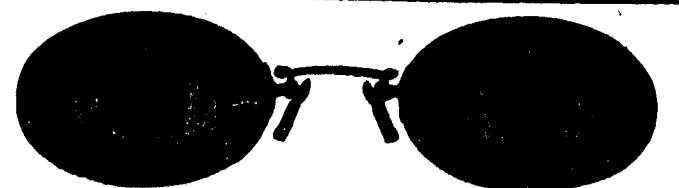

Young men, who are desirous of recruiting should register at once at Clapp's drug store or the Covina post-office, and arrangements will immediately be made for a recruiting officer to come to Covina with a medical examiner.

NEW RECTOR HAS TAKEN UP RESIDENCE IN COVINA.

The Rev. and Mrs. Charles T. Murphy have arrived in Covina and have leased the home of Mrs. Dora Shearer on the corner of Badillo and Fifth streets, where they will be pleased to meet their parishioners and friends. Mr. Murphy is the recently appointed rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal church. Rev. Murphy was for a number of years the rector of the Episcopal church at Long Beach, and has recently been in charge of St. Agnace church in Los Angeles. He is one of the most active rectors of the diocese, and wherever he has located has taken an active interest in community affairs.

The members of St. Margaret's Guild of the Holy Trinity church met with Miss Harriett Davis Wednesday afternoon and spent a delightful social hour.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Vincent have announced the engagement of their oldest daughter, Miss Blossom, to Mr. Herbert C. Libby of Alhambra. The marriage will take place the 28th of this month at the home of the bride's parents on East Puente street.

J. A. ROMINGER ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR STATE SENATOR FOR THIS DISTRICT.

Joseph A. Rominger, a well known resident of Long Beach for the past ten years, representative in the last California legislature from the 70th district, announced his candidacy of the 33rd Senatorial District, which includes Covina.

This aggressive Republican is being backed by a large majority of the residents of his home city, who were well pleased with the record that he made in the state assembly, where among his other accomplishments he brought about the passage of the Signal Hill Drainage act; a new law relative to the election and fixing the boundaries by boards of supervisors; and an appropriation for erection of Lincoln Memorial Monument, which stands in Pacific Park, Long Beach.

JOSEPH A. ROMINGER

In announcing his candidacy, he states that his belief is that now is the time for Southern California to stand united in asking a state appropriation in a substantial sum to aid in flood control and the protection thereby of our agricultural land and citrus groves.

Mr. Rominger is and has always been, a true blue republican, and he enters the senatorial ranks a staunch champion of the principles of the "Grand Old Party."

He has already established the fact that he stands for, and will insist upon to the extent of his opportunities, an economic administration of state affairs. He is outspoken in his opposition to the appointment of members of the legislature to salaried state positions during their term of office.

Merwin Children Go To Long Beach

Within the past two years June has come to mean to the little children of the Merwin school a joyous automobile ride, the ocean, picnic lunch, merry-go-round rides and all the other delights of a picnic, and so it has come—that day—to have a significance almost, if not, greater than Christmas.

With both the Covina high school trucks loaded to their capacity, the two genial drivers and three women to help, in addition to the loved teacher, Mrs. Brownfield, who had planned the whole lovely day, the fifty-two children started merrily off at eight, and after a long, pleasant ride, came to the ocean, tumbling in white spray on the beach. Most had seen the Pacific before, but to some the sight was a new one, and their amazement at the vast expanse of water was great. Ample lunch, provided by the thoughtfulness of the ladies of the Presbyterian church, was enjoyed on the pier, and then came the great fun of wading. Shoes and stockings came off in a trice and older and younger splashed and raced in the waves, some of the more adventurous going out too far and getting more or less wet. But the dampness didn't at all matter, for the hot sun and warm sand soon made all right again.

A walk up and down the beach, feeding pennants to the monkeys, finding shells, enjoying treats of all-day suckers and ice cream cones, and best of all, a delightful, exciting ride on the prancing horses of the merry-go-round, kept the flying minutes full. The start home was made in good time, but, alas for the best laid plans of drivers and teacher, for some accident happened to the Stanley steamer, and the girls, with Mrs. Bond and Mrs. Coman, had the ignominious experience of being towed home from Los Angeles, and in consequence, it was half-past nine before the children reached home.

But in spite of the trouble, the youngsters were happy and contented, with never a word of complaint. Merry school songs were sung and games played—one seven-year-old being a remarkably fine small teacher, and ever called upon "Mr. Morgan," when an obstreperous pupil would not mind.

"All's well that ends well," and in spite of the long delay coming home, none but the happiest and most pleasant memories remain of the last annual picnic of the Merwin school.

The following account of the picnic was written by one of the children of the Mexican school:

A TRIP TO LONG BEACH.

Saturday morning we went to Long Beach. We all came to the schoolhouse at eight o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Brownfield pinned the badges on all of us. When everybody was here we started. We passed through Baldwin Park, Bassett, Old Mission, Pico, Downey, Clearwater, and some other towns. When we were near Long Beach we stopped on a high hill where we could see all over the city. When we reached Long Beach we saw a beautiful park where there was a picnic and all the children seemed to be having a good time.

When I saw something like fog I thought right away that it was the ocean. Then we got down from the trucks. Some of the children went with Miss Crabb to take a ride in the "Race Through the Clouds." When they came back we had our lunch. After that we went to the sand. Then we girls and boys took off our shoes and stockings and went in wading. Some of the children got wet and had to sit in the sun so us to get dry. This was the first time the sea had ever tickled my feet. Mrs. Brownfield took us for a walk along the seashore, and we gathered some shells to take home. When all were dry we went to the merry-go-round. We all had ice cream. After that we were ready to come home.

Then we got on the trucks and started off. On the way, we were singing. When we had passed through Downey we had our lunch. Then we rode on and on until we reached home. All our parents were waiting for us, for it was dark.

We all thank the high school board for letting us have the trucks, and also the kind hearted women who fixed our nice lunch. We all missed Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, and Mrs. Shearer, and Miss Douglass, but we all had a nice time.

Wilbur Nye Wins The Reed Prize

Four Students of the Covina High School Heard in Annual Oratorical Contest—Orations Interspersed With Vocal and Instrumental Music—Attendance For Event Was Large.

The annual Reed oratorical contest was held Monday evening in the high school auditorium, and the attendance plainly showed the interest taken by the citizens of Covina in this department of the school work.

The contestants were Alford Olmstead, Wilbur Nye, Lester Seib, and Donald Warner. Wilbur Nye was awarded first place by a close margin over Lester Seib; Alford Olmstead, third; Donald Warner, fourth.

The meeting was presided over by Miss Helen Bainbridge, secretary of the student body. The orations were interspersed with vocal and instrumental music, including a clarinet solo, "Longing For Home" (Hartman), by Roy Harris; a cornet solo, "Think of Me" (Mallard), Eulalia Bainbridge; vocal solo, "Oh Golden Sun" (Freeby), Violet Tucker; saxophone solo, Miss Ruth Talley.

One striking feature of the orations was the poise and confidence shown by the contestants, demonstrating the excellent work which has been done by the instructors of the Covina school along the line of oratory.

"National Defense" was the subject treated by Alford Olmstead, and the manner in which he handled it came as a surprise to his friends, as this is the first occasion in which he has been heard in public debate.

"The Tendency of the Modern Drama," by Lester Seib, showed a keen analytic conception of his subject.

"The Dawn of a New America," by Donald Warner, the youngest of the contestants, was teeming with patriotism, and showed originality.

Wilbur Nye, who, although young in years, has become a platform veteran, took as his theme, "The value of the Vote." Experience has given his confidence, and this, added to his ability to drive home his points, won for him first place.

The following extracts are taken from Nye's oration:

"The vote has practically no intrinsic value. However, its price in the struggles, in the lives, hopes, in the sacrifices, are above the richest jewels.

"Through the ages, what have men and women not been willing to sacrifice for the vote? When troubles are so near that we cannot view them in perspective, we are apt to discredit, and even deride them. Before this great war, we jeered at the English woman, who sacrificed her pride, health, and in some cases, her life, for the vote. We called her insane, yet the insane never stop their ravings in response to reason; but the English women have ceased theirs. They have made no manifestations during these months, while the country they loved so well has been in imminent peril. What glorious, sane courage they show in the field hospitals near the front-line trenches, in men's positions everywhere!

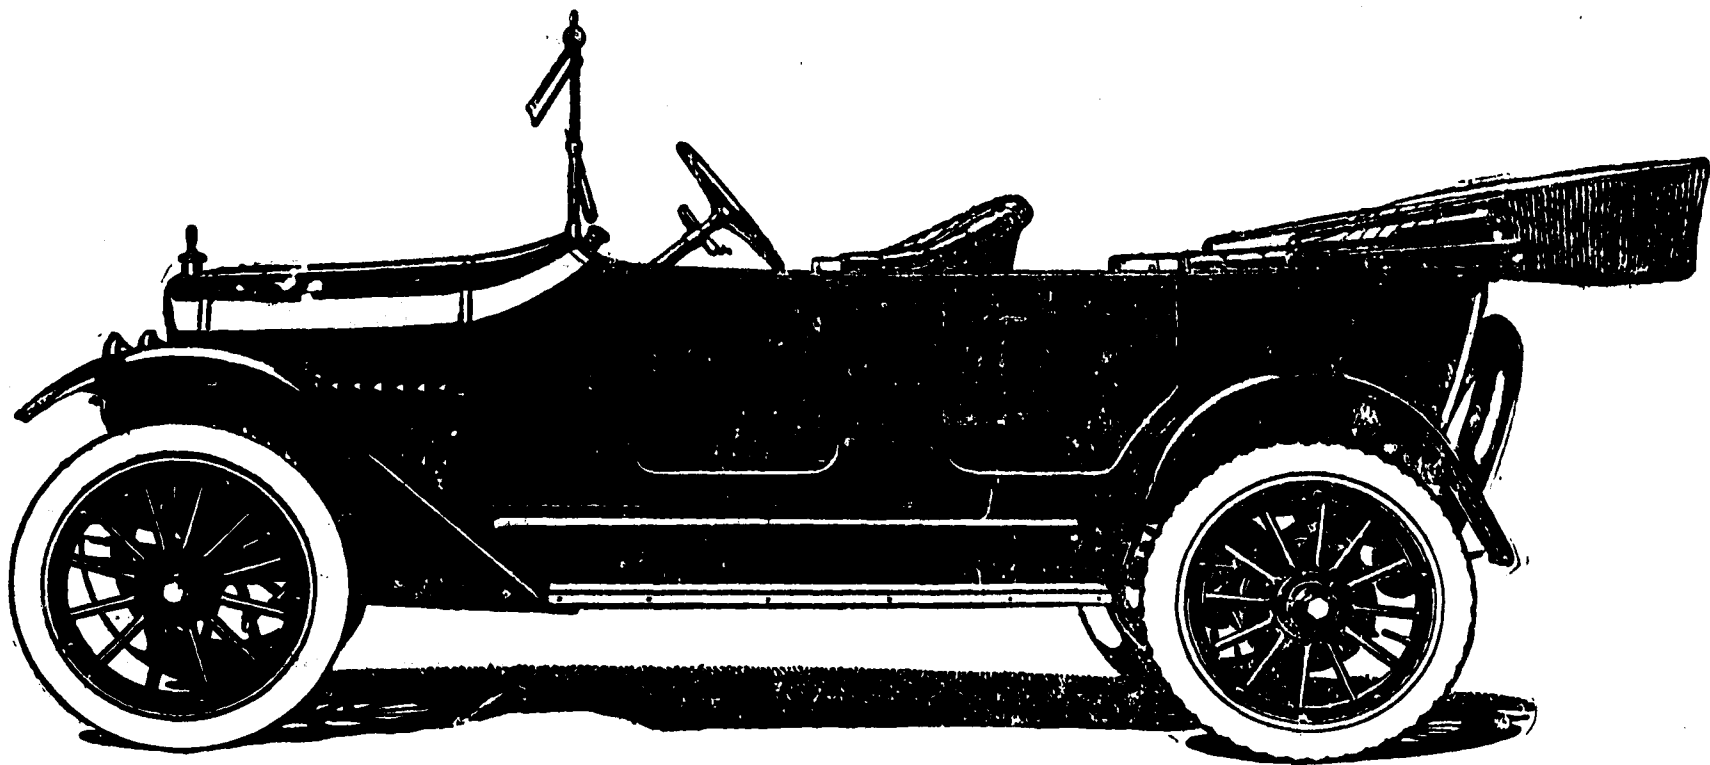

"Why did not Washington and Adams cheerfully accept tyranny? Why do not the Belgians and Servians accept their lots as subject peoples with cheerful resignation? It is the universal longing of races for a voice in their own ruling, and freedom from coercion by other people. That longing will never die, until indeed there is a man-made law that will stop the blades of grass from growing as they grow, and that will never be.

"We believe that the vote is one of the instruments that will make the prophecy of Victor Hugo come true, when he said, 'In future centuries war will be dead, the scaffold will be dead, dogmas will be dead, but men will live. For all there will be but one country, and that country the whole earth. For all there will be but one hope, and that hope, heaven.'

"Recall what this principle has done for our own country. The events which followed the establishment of the United States of America are like the marvels of a dream. Vast in increase, peerless in power, lustrous with intelligence, the land has grown glorious among the nations. Hither came genius, hither came invention, and withal up rose a stalwart race, the true nobility of nature's self-rule.

"We must, by our vote, see that our country is safeguarded, that our honor is upheld, that our citizens are protected wherever they are, that we do not suffer insult or ignoble defeat from any foe. This cannot be done by the valor of our ancestors, but by our own wise choice, by our own willingness to sacrifice and endure. In all this the franchise is worth the price that has been paid for it, in that which it has accomplished and that which it will accomplish. Let us now, as never before, respect and esteem the use and value of our vote."

This is the proper time to apply nitrate of soda to obtain the best results. Armour Fertilizer Works, A. M. Seeley, sales agent, Home phone 73.

A Timely Warning

ELEVEN well-known automobiles have advanced in price within the last ninety days.

The Maxwell Company has not increased their prices. We do not know what their plans are, but we do know and you know that materials entering into the construction of good automobiles now cost from 20 to 300 per cent more than they did six months ago.

Nothing is to be gained by delay. Much may be lost.

Not only may you lose several dollars in the purchase price, but you are sacrificing the enjoyment, the relaxation, the health-giving properties—everything, in fact, that makes motoring the favorite pastime of the nation.

We urge you to come in and investigate the Maxwell.

Or, we will refer you to any number of Maxwell owners and let them tell you their own story in their own way.

They will tell you what they have told us. That the Maxwell is good-looking—that it is powerful—that it is comfortable—that it is economical—in short, that it is the best investment they ever made. They will tell you more and they will tell you gladly and freely.

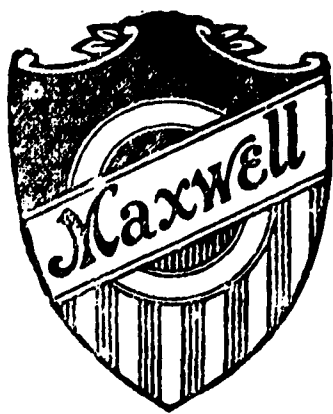

That's the way they feel toward us and the Maxwell Car.

Whatever you do, don't put this off. We have a few cars on hand and can take orders for immediate or future delivery—at present prices. If you can't come in today, phone us for a Maxwell demonstration.

LONG BEACH WILL STAGE CELEBRATION ON THE FOURTH.

Long Beach is to the front again this year with a rousing Fourth of July celebration, and all Southern California is invited to be present and participate in the festivities and demonstrations.

Probably the most elaborate feature will be the grand carnival of states parade. All visitors are invited to join and help swell the ranks of the old home state. There will be great rivalry among some of the states as to which one can show the greatest number of visitors to Long Beach on that day, July 3.

The Kiltie band, the Long Beach municipal band, the Japanese band and other musical organizations will discourse sweet melody at just about every corner. Contexts of various sports will be staged, which added to the attractions of the surf and the "Pike" will make two very busy days.

On the 4th a grand athletic meet will be held, in which high school boys and others will participate. At the end of the regular list of events a "Greased Pig Chase" will be staged, and this will undoubtedly prove of absorbing interest to spectators as well as participants.

To top the festivities a grand display of fireworks will be given on the evening of the 4th.

Many people have signified their intention of going to the beach on Saturday afternoon and spending Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday there. This is almost as good as a regular vacation, and as this is a patriotic year, why not make the most of the Fourth? The hotels, apartment houses are prepared to welcome the largest Fourth of July gathering Long Beach has ever had.

OBSERVE STATE LAWS TO PREVENT FOREST FIRES.

In every section of California the grass is dry earlier than usual this season. Already several grass and range fires have started from camping places along the highways. Presumably these fires were caused by camp fires that were left burning or by burning matches or tobacco carelessly tossed into the grass.

The California Forest Protective Association urges campers and tourists to be careful not only on account of the property damage that may result from grass, brush and forest fires, but also in observance of the law.

Section 384 of the Penal Code of California makes it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than $50 or more than $500, or imprisonment in the county jail not less than 15 days nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, for leaving a camping place without extinguishing a camp fire; or for allowing a fire to spread to the lands of any person other than the builder of the fire; or for clearing land by burning brush, stumps, etc., or using explosives without either obtaining a permit or taking proper precautions to prevent the spread of fire.

This law is sufficient and a careful observance of it will save much in property and expense and will also preserve the scenic beauties of California to those who enjoy themselves outdoors.

YOUR COUNTRY NEEDS YOU.

A call has been sent out over the land under the dominion of the American flag, asking that men of the nation respond at once to the need for a larger fighting force. The enrollment in the United States army and the national guard must be increased. The country is in danger.

Every man between the ages of eighteen and forty-five must search his soul at this time. He must ask himself if this call to arms is a direct call to him—whether he is the kind of man needed at this time. If he is the kind of man the country can use in this time of crisis, he must then ask himself if there is any serious reason why he should not volunteer, and if there is no such reason, he should offer his services at the nearest recruiting station. Your country needs you.

Thousands of splendid American men are watching the situation closely, and are saying, either to themselves or openly, that they are waiting for even more critical developments. Hundreds of thousands will unquestionably volunteer when the enemy actually begins marching toward American homes. But what we need is volunteers now, in order that the showing of an armed force before an enemy will be so great and so conclusive that a serious war will be nipped in the bud. Prompt action now may prevent a war of long duration. If we show an enemy that we are thoroughly aroused, the chances are exceptionally good that war will cease before it fairly begins.

The national guard of California needs more men in every company to protect the American border. None of the companies are up to war strength. The companies cannot be moved to the border until those companies are placed on an adequate war footing. The equipment for the national guard is inadequate, but the men are lacking to the point of war efficiency.

Many young men throughout California have received military training in schools and universities. They know the United States manual of arms. The national guard is in serious need of non-commissioned officers. It needs drill sergeants, it needs lieutenants. The young man with university military training, and the young man with brains and quick intellect can now step into something better than what the rank and file will occupy. The chance to hold positions above the rank and file is good now. The chance will diminish as the recruiting goes on. As fast as companies are moved to the border the chance for non-commissioned positions will diminish.

The country needs also the example set by the young man of intelligence and training. The patriotism of the American youth is undoubted, but it needs leadership and example. If you are eligible you should make it known now.

War is no pink tea. By recruiting full contingents now we may avoid actual war. But if we do not avoid war we gain nothing by delaying in making the army as efficient as possible.

The officers of the national guard are calling upon the women to assist with their encouragement. This is no time for wives, sweethearts and mothers to place objections in the way of the man who is preparing to defend his country. It is neither a time for heroics on his part, nor for tears and weak selfishness on the part of the women of the household, the women whom he must protect, and who are enshrined in his heart. No American woman will object when the seriousness of the situation is fully brought home to her, but the difficulty now is to overcome the idea that not all are needed, and that someone else's son and sweetheart can better be spared. The burden is upon all, and whether it is to be a flash-in-the-pan or a real struggle for American rights and for the rights of humanity, the time to act is now, and the years to come will justify the act, as the years of the past have justified every act of war in the history of the American nation.

ANALYZING A HAIR.

Science Reads It as Expert Woodsmen Read the Trees.

To the German analyst hair is packed with information. The approximate age and physical condition can be constructed by an examination of a single hair.

The hair of every animal has certain distinguishing characteristics. It is not to be mistaken by a competent investigator. Some animals, as for example the cow, have three types of hair. These will be known by their structure. Under a proper microscopic examination hairs will be as easily distinguished by an expert as varieties of trees in a grove will be distinguished by a forester.

There was a case in which a dagger found on the prisoner had a few short hairs caught entangled in a nick of the blade. He explained this by saying that he had used the dagger to kill a rabbit that he had found trapped in a hedge. The authorities reported to the police, after an examination of the dagger, that the hairs were not of human origin, but they also added they were not rabbit hairs; they were squirrel hairs.

The police were extremely puzzled until they finally discovered that on the night of the homicide the prisoner had worn a great coat trimmed with squirrel fur. He had, in fact, carefully washed the knife after the assassination and thereby removed every evidence of his act; but, unfortunately for him, he made the mistake of attempting to dry the dagger by wiping it on the fur lining of his great coat—Melville Davison Post in Saturday Evening Post.

INSECT MARVELS.

These Tireless Creatures Are Built For the Strenuous Life.

Many interesting facts, the result of long study, are given by Mr. Harold Eastin, an eminent entomologist, in his book, "Insects, Their Life Histories and Habits."

"Contrary to popular belief, spiders are not insects. Insects have six legs, neither more nor less, and another peculiarity of the insect is that it has wings—sometimes two, more often four. Spiders have eight legs and no wings; therefore spiders are not insects."

"Insects have no backbones and no skeletons, but skins with a hard, durable surface called chitin, which makes up a light shell of armor that forms the outside of the body, to the inside of which the muscles are attached. Insects do not breathe through their mouths, but through holes in the bodies called spiracles. Insects have neither veins nor arteries; the blood is pumped directly from the chambered heart into the body cavity, where it bathes and nourishes the organs. Insects have wonderful and capillary digestive organs and feed upon, and digest almost any substance from which nourishment may be extracted."

"Because of the way they are built, insects are particularly fitted for the strenuous life, and a tired insect is a thing unknown. They are always busy travelling, buzzing, biting or seeking some work to do."

Blossoms That Bees Love.

A person who has had no experience with bees commonly makes the mistake of supposing that the roses, peonies, sweet peas, dahlias or other gaudy blossoms of his garden will furnish a quantity of honey. Their value is almost negligible, except that some of them yield a little pollen. It is to the modest white clover in the orchard or on the roadside or the weeds of pasture or woodland or the blossoms of trees like the basswood that the bees go for the bulk of their honey. It does not pay to cultivate any plant for its value as a honey producer. The orchard is a splendid place for the apiary, where the bees can build up on the first nectar in the spring, and the blossoms have the benefit of the bees' visits.—John W. Love in Country Magazine.

A Cent.

A cent is a little thing, but in the aggregate it is mighty. We speak of the "copper cent," but it is not entirely copper. Its composition is 95 per cent copper, 3 per cent tin and 2 per cent zinc. That alloy is in reality bronze, and the official name of the cent is "bronze." There used to be a copper cent, but an act discontinuing its coinage was passed in 1857. For seven years (1857-64) we had a nickel cent and up to 1857 a copper half cent.

Not Qualified Yet.

"I saw you out in your new car yesterday."

"Did I look like a motorist?"

"Well, no. You had an air of responsibility that gave you away, but then that will disappear in time."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Light Year.

The term "light year" is one used by astronomers. It helps the astronomer to enable the layman to get some sort of idea of the distances from us of the celestial bodies, the light year standing for the distance that light travels in twelve months' time.

The Sickly Golf Players.

A golf player who had been badly beaten by his opponent explained to him that he had been suffering all day from neuritis. "It's a curious thing," replied his opponent, "but I've never beaten a man in perfect health in my life."

It is a great misfortune not to have enough wit to speak well or not enough judgment to keep silent.—La Bruyere.

C.J. PETERSEN

Mrs. J. W. Keefer has returned from a ten days visit with a sister in Sacramento.

The members of the D. A. R. held their last meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. Lute Anderson in Azusa, Monday afternoon. A very interesting paper on "The Milestones of Old Glory" was read by Mrs. William Crook, and another by Mrs. Anderson on "Immigration." This was followed by a social hour.

Mrs. L. H. Harris entertained informally Monday afternoon in honor of the second birthday of her little daughter, Helen Louise. The little people spent the afternoon playing and their mothers with fancy work. Dainty refreshments, including a birthday cake were served. The guests were Mrs. S. S. Aschenbrenner, Gladys Aschenbrenner, Mrs. Geo. Van Vliet, Betty and Kenneth Van Vliet, Mrs. C. E. Crawford, Mrs. Bert Blanchard, Dorothy Blanchard, Mrs. L. L. Rakein, Mrs. J. N. Wilson, Mrs. Thomas Traweck, and Mrs. Belle Harris.

North Whittier Heights

Orange, Lemon, Walnut and
Avocado Lands and Groves

The universally favorable opinion which is held of our North Whittier Heights citrus and walnut land subdivision by the orchardists of the Whittier and other adjoining sections is easily accounted for in the fact that the owners of this choice holdings have accomplished much in the way of development and have not tried to boost their property through extravagant promises of big things to be done in the future.

Approximately 1200 acres of this property has been planted to orchards, since the spring of 1913, by the owners and purchasers of the property, which record speaks for itself.

It is being sold in unplanted tracts of 5 acres and up or in tracts planted to one, two and three year old orchards and on easy terms if desired. We will also contract to plant or care for orchards for those who wish to have us do so.

If you are in the market for a safe investment and a desirable location for a suburban orchard home, we shall be pleased to show you the property by auto any day. Call, phone or write for full information and a descriptive folder. See Russell or Maple, with

The men's league of the Presbyterian church met last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Warren on North Citrus avenue. There were about twenty-five members present and a most enthusiastic meeting was held and plans for new work to be undertaken made. The men are also members of the Fellowship class of the Sunday-school, and the work done by them since their organization about a year ago, has greatly benefited the church. The men are all very much interested in the new work to be done in the community. Following the business meeting, a social hour was spent, and a light supper served by the host and hostess.

Dr. C. F. Fingerle has just completed a new office in the rear of his residence, 204 West Badillo street, and has moved his practicing rooms to that place. The new building is a very attractive one, in the popular shingled bungalow type, and is fitted with two treating rooms, a reception room, office and laboratory.

Mrs. M. E. Miller, matron at the Masonic orphans' home, who underwent an operation at the Clara Barton hospital in Los Angeles, and who has been convalescing at the home of friends in Los Angeles, expects to return to the home soon and will resume her work about the first of the month.

The boys of the Masonic orphans' home had the pleasure of being taken to the Knights Templar parade Wednesday morning by some of the Covina Masons in their autos. The girls, accompanied by their teachers, will be taken to the parade in Los Angeles this morning.

ANNA PAVLOWA AND COMPANY AT MAJESTIC, LOS ANGELES.

Anna Pavlova, the famous Russian dancer, will appear at the Majestic theater, Los Angeles, next week, for four performances, June 26, 28 and 30, and matinee July 1st.

When it was learned that she was coming to the coast for the summer there was a big demand for her in various cities, and it became a question of elimination. Of course inducements were held out by local managers in different cities and getting her resolved itself into a matter of competition, as only a few appearances could be made during the short stay of the celebrated danseuse on the coast. She came out for a rest and vacation, but the demand for her appearance in several quarters became so insistent that she has consented to give a limited number of performances while here.

There will doubtless be a generous response on the part of the public to the privilege of having Pavlova, who will also have with her M. Alexandro Volinine, her dancing partner of last year, Miles. Plaskovietzka, Colinet and Stuart, and M. Vajinski, Mr. Theodore Stier, formerly conductor of the London Classical Orchestra, and who has been Pavlova's musical director for the past five seasons, will have charge of the symphony orchestra.

Miss Cordelia Lee, a noted violinist from the East, will appear in solo violin numbers, as well as obligatos to some of Pavlova's solo dances. Mrs. Blanche Robinson, a well known pianist, will also appear on the program.

The dance program will consist of dances by Pavlova, also by Volinine; duets with Volinine, trios by the three girls, and other numbers.

CALIFORNIA VAULTS ARE FULL OF GOLD.

Sacramento, June 17.—A count of the gold in the state treasury was made yesterday by the state board of control. The amounts on hand were: gold, $4,500,090.00; silver, $4,232.90; nickels, $74.99; currency, $2,500.00; gold certificates, $1,300,000.00. There is on deposit in banks of the state subject to call, $9,243,665.00. St. Treasurer Friend W. Richardson says the finances of the state are in good condition and that the state is making deposits in banks as fast as applications are received. Next month franchise tax payments will begin to come in.

PICTURE MATINEES ARE GROWING IN POPULARITY.

The Saturday matinee at the Star theater are growing in interest each week. This is due to the splendid reels which are being secured by Mrs. Dietz, the proprietor, who is sparing no expense to give the people of Covina the cleanest and strongest films procurable.

On Saturday afternoon of this week will be seen that amusing comedy, "Jed's Trip to the Fair," featuring Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran, and Betty Compton. In addition to this will be seen Marguerita Clarke in "The Prince and the Pauper," both charming films for the children to see.

On Friday and Saturday of next week, Pathe News will feature the Masonic parade and corner-stone laying in Covina.

CHARTER OAK.

Graduation Exercises.

Charter Oak grammar school brought the school year to a close on Tuesday evening, June 20, with exercises held in the school grounds, attended by four hundred relatives and friends of the largest class that has ever been graduated from this school.

The graduates were Antonio R. Bullett, Newell M. Brown, Russell H. Clopine, John Dotts, Mary Esther Dolater, Ismena D. French, Claude Grant, Edith Gertrude Hiner, Lester W. Howard, Gladys Gertrude Johnson, William L. Jessup, Myron J. Lakey, John Westervelt Middleton, Eva Margery Olmstead, Mary Marguerita Simmons, James B. Wingate.

This class of young people was presented by Miss Clara Thompson, principal of the school, who in a few remarks, thanked the large gathering for the assistance they had been to the faculty and class in making possible this occasion and briefly told of the enthusiasm and energy which the students had shown in their work during the past year. The diplomas were presented by Prof. J. J. Morgan, supervising principal of the schools composing the Covina union high school district. During the course of his remarks, he told the pupils in a practical way, the benefits which will accrue to them and to the state if they consistently strive for the higher education in the high schools and universities.

The program succeeding the presentation of diplomas was entirely given by the children of the various grades, and consisted of recitations, musical numbers, folk dancing, a playlet, "The Superior Sex," negro lullabies, and a play, "The Junior," in three acts. In this comedy the characters were depicted by John Middleton, Claude Grant, James Wingate, Russell Clopine, Antonio Bullett, John Dotts, Myron Lakey, Lester Howard, William Jessup, Newell Brown, Edith Hiner, Marguerita Simmons, Gladys Johnson, Esther Dolater, and Norma Seib, the latter showing a most marked ability, for one so young, in the histrionic art. The entertainment throughout was of character to please the children.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sohn spent several days this week with friends in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sprague and daughter, Dorothy, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Crowell in Los Angeles.

Mrs. S. A. Stowell entertained Wednesday noon with a daintily-appointed luncheon. The guests were Miss Clara Thompson, Miss R. Hursh, Miss Rose Nigg, Miss H. G. Sharpe, all Charter Oak grammar school teachers, and Miss Stowell of Los Angeles.

Miss Stowell of Los Angeles attended the graduation exercises of the Charter Oak grammar school Tuesday evening, remaining over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Stowell.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Cassel motored to Riverside Wednesday and visited the experiment station in that place.

Miss Harriet Cassel of Pasadena is spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Cassel.

Miss Amy Jones of Baldwin Park has been a guest of Gladys Johnson a few days this week.

Mrs. W. G. Smith entertained the ladies of the Charter Oak Thimble Club Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. H. G. Shorey entertained the ladies of the neighborhood at a porch party Thursday afternoon. The afternoon was spent informally with social conversation and fancy work. The guests were Misses McCoy, Olmstead, Marsh, Garner, Stewart, Mellann, and Miss Barker.

IRWINDALE.

Lark Ellen School Notes.

The graduation exercises of the eighth grade of the Lark Ellen grammar school will take place Friday evening, June 23rd, at a party to be given the pupils at the home of Prof. B. L. Easton. The diplomas will be awarded at that time.

Ellen Bench Yaw, for whom the Lark Ellen school is named, will give the children of the school their annual treat in the form of an ice cream feast Friday afternoon at the school grounds. Miss Yaw has for many years given the children of the entire school a treat of some kind. This year ice cream will be served to all the pupils and a general good time enjoyed on Friday afternoon.

C. S. Brown has installed a Fairbanks scales at the S. P. depot for the convenience of the public.

Mrs. Kate Sanborn of Pasadena has spent the greater part of the past week with her sister, Mrs. L. H. Root.

Mrs. Mary Lloyd and Miss Hannah Lloyd of Pasadena have been guests this week of Mrs. Jennie Wood.

Mrs. W. F. Hall of Baldwin Park has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. F. Pearl Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Coffman and Mrs.

Costenbader entertained Misses Aloha and Ramona Washburn, Ed Wyche, and William Beasley of South Pasadena at dinner Wednesday evening.

E. T. Coffman, accompanied by Mr. Bessant, have returned from a two weeks' business trip through the San Joaquin valley. The trip was made by auto.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Coffman and Mrs. Thomas Costenbader were dinner guests Tuesday evening of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Feist in Covina. The affair was a birthday surprise for Mrs. Costenbader.

WEST COVINA.

Mr. Earl Hotchkiss and family and Mr. H. Smith of Lemoore, Kings county, were guests several days this week of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hotchkiss and family.

Mrs. O. G. Hoar entertained the ladies of the Sewing Club Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Selvey and A. R. Speer of Hyperia are guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Speer and family.

Mrs. Chris Kranz and children spent several days this week with friends in Los Angeles. While there, they attended several parades of the Knights Templar conclave.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Kranz and children were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Reese in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Taschner, Misses Ellenore and Elfrida, and Mr. O. H. Jaroch of Los Angeles made a party that has just returned from an auto trip to San Diego. They were away about ten days taking in the fair at that place and other points of interest. They also stopped to visit relatives at Escondido for a few days.

Miss M. Seaman is spending the week end in Los Angeles with relatives. She will attend a musical Friday evening, and be a member of a camping party Saturday and Sunday.

VENICE RODEO, JULY 2, 3, 4TH.

Venice is making gigantic preparations to take care of her big holiday crowd expected for the four-day celebration starting Saturday July 1, and ending on the evening of the Fourth.

The feature of the celebration is the grand rodeo staged by Thos. H. Ince, the wonder director of the "movie" world, which opens its three-day engagement on Sunday at 2 p.m. The Rodeo and wild west show combined is claimed to be the most elaborate ever staged. The enclosure at the Race Thru the Clouds is one of the most ideal spots in which to stage this big event as there is almost every setting desired. Besides, it will accommodate fifteen thousand people with plenty of room for the contestants. A beautiful little story has been written around the Rodeo by Charles F. Miller, one of Mr. Ince's ablest directors, and this little playlet will be acted out under Mr. Miller's direction by the Inceville movie stars. The bucking broncho, the roping, the relay, and pony express contests are all open events and anyone is eligible to enter. There are cash prizes for all events and any entry will be accepted if there by June 25. The entire proceeds go to the actors' fund for the relief of those who are in need.

Venice has something doing every minute from the opening on the night of July 1st until the last light goes out on the night of the Fourth. Four mammoth fireworks displays, a carnival every night with joker bands and yama yama girls, while during the day the Wild West parades and the bathing and diving girls on the lagoon will help to entertain the visitor in addition to the Rodeo.

CHARGES AGAINST WOOLWINE DISMISSED IN COURT.

Before Superior Judge Willis, the charges brought by Attorney Randal Hood against District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine were dismissed. The case would have been but of little importance from the news standpoint if it had not been that Attorney Hood and Attorney Joe Ford, the latter the counsel for Woolwine in the case, clashed in the court-room. Ford struck Hood with his fist.

Woolwine was accused by Hood of irregular practice of his duty in connection with the case of the people against Lamberton, where Lamberton had been accused of maintaining a nuisance. The case involved a raid on a house near Puente, where it was alleged that liquor was being sold. Hood claimed that Woolwine returned a consignment of liquor to the man whose place had been raided. There were other charges against the district attorney.

Judge Willis found no grounds upon which to make a case out against the district attorney, but the judge did find Hood guilty of contempt of court. The judge fined the young attorney for precipitating the scene in the court room, and scored him for "ignorance of the law." The district attorney emerged from the case with dignity, and Attorney Hood received a lesson in court etiquette.

CHARM OF BIOGRAPHY.

It Leads the Reader Into Quaint and Delightful Byways.

Reading biography will furnish you with a peculiar and rare form of entertainment, for besides the subject in hand biography legitimately treats of the follies, the fashions and the peculiarities of the age with which it deals, says Youth's Companion. History, although it may have its lighter moments, is essentially sober, but biography, although it is never merely farcical or satirical, may touch vividly upon the lighter phases of life and take you, as it were, into quaint and delightful byways, through private parks and into remote and lovely fields.

"Indeed," wrote Boswell in his introduction to his famous biography, "I cannot conceive a more perfect mode of writing any man's life than by not only relating the most important events of it in their order, but by interweaving what he privately wrote and said and thought, by which mankind are enabled, as it were, to see him live and to live over each scene with him as he actually advanced through the several stages of his life."

Biography, treated in that manner, must inevitably include much that is delightfully diverting. It will give you "the table talk of the great." It will recount those fascinating little incidents and anecdotes that history so often regards as beneath its notice. It will afford far more than a running account of a life, "beginning with a pedigree and ending with a funeral."

CONTRASTS IN ICELAND.

A Curious Land of Fire and Ice, of Volcanoes and Glaciers.

Iceland is known as a "land of contrasts." The land of Iceland boasts in comparatively small compass fire and ice, volcanoes, glaciers and geysers. There is magnificent scenery in its desolate plateaus. It has more than 100 volcanoes, of which the largest is Hecla, 5,100 feet high. There are thousands of craters in Iceland, the chief among them being Askya, with an area of thirty-four square miles.

Of glaciers there are more than 120, with aggregate areas of about 5,200 square miles. The largest is Vatna. Not far from Hecla is the so called geyser region, where there are many hot springs. The Great Geyser is sixty feet in diameter. One geyser was found to have water at a temperature of 262 degrees F., which makes it possibly the hottest spring in the world. One-eighth of Iceland is glacier hidden, and there are ice clad mountain domes, of which the highest is Oraetajokull, 9,424 feet.

There are not many settlements in Iceland. The capital is Reykjavik, with a population of 11,000, and after that the two chief towns are Akureyl, 2,080, and Isafjord, 1,850 inhabitants. The people of Iceland are described as unusually intelligent, and one authority states that "perhaps in no other country of Europe are so many books in proportion to the population printed and sold as in Iceland."

Myth of the Doones.

How largely Mr. Blackmore drew upon his imagination for the story of "Lorna Doone" is made clear by F. W. Hackwood in his book, "The Good Old Times." There were, in fact, no Doones. The word was simply a local boggy, a modified form of "Dane," a memory of the faroff times when the viking invaders harried the land. "The only vestige of actuality discoverable is a faint tradition that a fugitive from the battle of Sedgemoor, to escape the hangings of Judge Jeffreys, appropriated the ruins of some wretched huts in recesses of the Badgworthy glen, now 'the Doon valley,' finding there a safe retreat in which he reared a considerable family, which managed to eke out a living by committing petty depredations in the district. The 'last of the Doones,' an old man and his granddaughter, are said to have perished in the snow during the winter of 1800."

The Arrow of St. Edmund.

The legend of the death of St. Edmund was curiously corroborated after a lapse of eight centuries. The story goes that the martyr was tied to a tree and, as torture proved unavailing to make him recant his faith, was shot at with Danish arrows till his body was covered with them. The tree at Hoxno to which he was said to have been bound and which was twenty feet in circumference fell in 1848, and, according to "The Black Letter Saints of the Prayer Book," a piece of iron like an arrow head was found imbedded in the wood.

Its Recommendation.

"Do you recommend this book?" "Certainly," answered the librarian. "It's a book that every one ought to read."

"But it shows very little handling. I don't believe it has been taken out more than once or twice."

"Quite true," answered the librarian, wearily. "That should convince you, madam, that it is really worth while."

—Birmingham Age-Herald.

No Robbery.

"I don't know just what to think of that storekeeper."

"What's the hitch?"

"He told me to come in and tell him what I don't know, so he can tell me what he knows."

"That's a fair exchange."—Richmond Times Dispatch.

Not Interesting.

"That woman seemed to bore you."

"Yes; I'm baldheaded, as you see. All she could talk about was the trouble she has in washing her hair."

FOREMAN DELIVERS BACCALAUREATE SERMON
TO HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATING CLASS

The auditorium of the Covina high school was crowded on Sunday evening by the friends and relatives of the graduates of the class of 1916, to listen to the baccalaureate sermon, delivered by the Rev. C. A. Foreman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city. Upon the platform with Dr. Foreman was the Rev. George Chamberlain, who presided, and the Rev. G. W. Thompson, pastor of the Christian church, who, in the absence of the Rev. S. J. McConnell, read the scripture lesson. The music was furnished by the high school orchestra, under the direction of Mr. R. W. Groom. The anthem, "Seek Ye the Lord," was rendered by the high school chorus, the solo part being taken by Lester Seib.

ARTISTS OR HUCKSTERS—WHICH?

Text, Dan. 1:88.
After congratulating the class upon the successful completion of its high school work, and explaining the wish that every member of the class may have a happy and successful future, Rev. Foreman addressed the class on the subject, "Artists or Hucksters—Which?" and spoke in part as follows:

Among the world's workers there are two classes: one may be styled the artists, the other, the hucksters. The former is giving itself to the noble task of making a life; the latter to the dispirited task of making merely a living. The sole aim of the huckster in life is to sell his wares. He is a peddler whose quest is for nothing but to find a buyer and gain some material advantage.

His spirit is entirely commercial, his method is soulless; his motive is wholly selfish.

The true artist of life is first of all a man of self-respect, who counts the making a life a greater thing than making a living.

His chief aim is not to get his work done, but to do it well. He puts motive and soul in all his work. Life's every-day duties to him are something more than a routine to be passed through in a listless fashion. They are a chance of making his contribution of service to the world's great work.

He does not spend his days killing time, but the hours and moments are the golden strands of duration along which he hangs his noble thoughts—thoughts of justice, love and truth—of life's nobler meaning and greater destiny, and out of these he weaves a character worthy of this world and fitted for a greater.

We may all be artists: not that we all with brush and paint may portray upon canvas the picture which will immortalize our names; not that with chisel and mallet we may compel the rugged granite to yield form and beauty; yet we may live in the spirit of him who paints immortal pictures and carves immortal obelisks and statues and writes immortal verses.

Attesting the words of Byron:
"Many are poets who have never penned,
Their inspiration, and perhaps the best."

The distinction which we would make is not one of position, high or low, according to the standards of men. It is not one of wealth and poverty. It is an inward, spiritual distinction. There are hucksters in all the high walks of life, men who do their work solely for the wage, who live their life purely for material gain; and contrawise, in the plainest fields of service are to be found some of the noblest spirits of the world, because with their hard and incessant toil to make a living, they have never lost sight of the nobler task of making a life.

This, my young friends, we would have you see is your real opportunity—the opportunity of making a life—of building a character.

As you face the future, the big question is not what are you going to do, but what the you going to be? It is not so important where you shall labor—whether you take up a profession, or build houses, or dig ditches, or grow oranges.

It is not where you shall work, that will determine whether or not you shall have achieved success, but rather how you are going to do your work—in what spirit and with what motive.

To make our thought more concrete, let us for a little time study a Biblical example of a true artist of life. His name is revealed in the verse which I have set down for a text: "But Daniel purposed in his heart he would not defile himself with a portion of the king's meat."

Daniel is one of the rarest and grandest characters in all history. Among all the Old Testament saints, he towers colossal. Many of the foremost of them were guilty of flagrant sins, which the Bible holds up to the light for open rebuke, but no such a stain is to be found in Daniel's record.

Some men escape reproach because of the obscurity that envelopes their life. Daniel walked in the fierce light that beats upon a throne. Some men remain comparatively innocent because, fortunately, their environment does not expose them to severe and trying temptations. Daniel trod the high places, where the going is always perilous, and dwelt amid the soft and siren seductions of an oriental court. At the time he began his career, the Chaldean dynasty held sway, and such majestic monarchs as Nebuchadnezzar and Belshazzar awed the world with their presence and power. But Daniel, yet a youth and a foreigner, was the power behind the throne that was greater than the throne itself. He lived close onto a hundred years, and during seventy of these he overtopped all the men of his time.

"Lives of great men all remind us, We can make our lives sublime," and it is well to study them with a view to finding out, if we may, what is the source of their strength, the secret of their success, and ask, as in the case of Daniel, how it was he stood, where others fell; how it was he distanced all competitors and forged to the front in spite of the machinations of men and devils, and held his place for so long, governing governors and swaying the scepter of power.

One word which is the key to our text, gives us the key to his success. That word is "purpose." It is the masterful word in his whole record—the dynamic of a mighty life. "Daniel purposed in his heart." Yes, his purpose entered into the very center of his being and reached out into every part of his life.

Most men who fail, fail not for want of brains, but for want of a worthy purpose. The men who have climbed the highest and worn the greenest laurels, have not been, as a rule, men of the highest natural genius, but men "within whose breast, some master passion swallowed all the rest."

Daniel's purpose was not only high, but it was supported and made effective by a noble type of courage. His purpose would never have come to anything without his courage. His natural ability, his learning, his pure ideals, or even his religious instincts, could not have made a Daniel without Daniel's courage. He feared no enemies, shrank from no hardships or unpleasant circumstances. He absolutely refused to permit anything to interfere with the carrying out of his plans, and the performance of his duty.

But this was not all that entered into Daniel's life and helped to make him great. Here is another element which we may entitle conscience.

Conscience is the chief justice in the soul of man. It reigns supremely over and judges every other faculty. Upon its walls are ever written the verdicts, "Well done, good and faithful servant," or, "Weighed in the balance and found wanting."

Daniel's refusal to eat the king's meat and drink the king's wine was with him a matter of conscience. And when his conscience said to him, "You ought not," there was not in the Chaldean dynasty enough glory to bribe him, nor enough power to force him to disobey his conscience.

It becomes every one of us to cherish and guard most faithfully this moral monitor of the soul.

Your happiness, your peace of mind and joy in life are going to depend on your loyalty to this chief magistrate of the soul.

Keep a good conscience and remember Daniel's example for doing this. What was this young man's purpose? "That he would not defile himself." That he would keep his life clean.

I have one thing more to note about this Hebrew youth. It is by far the most important of all. Back and above everything that appears on the service in Daniel's career was his loyalty to the true God. In the midst of an idolatrous age and people, when the temptation naturally was to follow the multitude, to do evil, he heroically remained true to the only living and true God.

He recognized the first obligation of his life was to Jehovah. There is no finer picture of loyalty to God, and real integrity of character, than that portrayed of Daniel, when his envious subordinates, played upon the vanity of King Darius, and secured his signature to an unalterable decree, that no one should offer any petition to any king or god, save to King Darius for thirty days, under penalty of being thrown into the lion's den. The instigators of this decree had but one motive, to entrap Daniel—either to discount his religious professions, or to destroy his life and have him out of their way. But Daniel was unimpaired. He chose to obey God rather than fear man. He went into his house, kneeled upon his knees three times a day and prayed and gave thanks before his God, as was his custom.

This is the deepest glimpse yet into the life of Daniel. Daniel knew how to pray. Here, after all, is the head fountain of his power and success. It is not difficult to understand Daniel's whole-minded purpose, fine courage and good conscience, when we know he lived in vital union and daily fellowship with his God.

As a true friend of all young people, and especially of you tonight, I want to say, every one of you need, in the battle of life, if you would win, just what Daniel had: you must know God, and you must know how to secure divine power through prayer. I am bold to say, you have a tremendous amount of vain conceit if you think you can achieve true success simply by your own cleverness—if you think you can build a life that is worth while by your own genius, utterly ignoring the God who has at his disposal all the reservoirs of power and blessing.

Ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, one of the finest artists of life that has ever been in public life, has said:

"As a mere matter of practical success in life, as a mere method of making the most out of himself, I would rather have a son, brother, or friend become a thoroughgoing Christian than to have any other single good fortune come to him." "I do not mean," he goes on to say, "that a man shall be religious with his intellect only. It is not enough he shall be a Christian in his mind alone. Get your Christianity into your blood."

Nor shall I forget the words of our lamented McKinley, spoken to a company of college students of which I was fortunate enough to be one, and the impression he made upon us, when he said: "The Christian character is the best character. No one needs to apologize for being a Christian."

I would like to add that it is a historical fact, that the vast majority of the really great souls of earth since the beginning of the Christian era—those souls which we hold up as models to the youth of the world, and whose names we speak with reverence, have been friends of the Christian faith. Yea, almost all have been earnest followers of that Matchless Man of Galilee. The real product of the Christian religion is not weaklings and effeminate, but giants, heroes, masters in mind and heart. When you join your life with the Christ, you are linking up with the mightiest personality in all the world and in all history. He was the finest Artist of life that ever lived. And as you join your hands and hearts to the forces already moving for the making of this world and our country a happier and nobler place in which to live, may you crown him King of your lives.

HULL-BARNES NUPTIALS.

The marriage of Mr. Bert Hull to Miss Lola Barnes was solemnized on Thursday evening, June 15th, at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hull, at 116 West Center street.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. J. McConnell of the Methodist church. The couple took their places under a huge bell of pink and white carnations and varied colored lights to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Esther Seinfeld. They were attended by Miss Edith Hull as bridesmaid and Mr. Milton Kanoda of Los Angeles as best man. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served in the dining room, which was a bower of gold and white. The bridal couple left immediately on a short honeymoon, after which they will make their home in Los Angeles, where the groom has employment.

The bride, an eastern girl, was beautifully gowned in white Alencon point lace over white charmeuse, and wore a veil of tulle caught with white forget-me-nots.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Crawford, Rev. and Mrs. S. J. McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. Daniels of Covina, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Gates of Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Atwood of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Nigg, Mr. T. T. Kirk, and Mr. M. E. Kanod, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Douglas of Azusa and Miss M. E. Hull of Long Beach.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED VACATION AND ABANDONMENT OF STREETS.

NOTICE is hereby given that a petition has been filed in the office of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, praying for the vacation and abandonment of a street or streets as hereinafter described, and that a hearing on said petition will be held by said board of supervisors at the office of said board in the city of Los Angeles on July 10, 1916, at 10 o'clock, a.m.

The streets proposed to be vacated and abandoned as herein referred to are described as follows, to-wit:

All that portion of Grandview avenue, as shown on map of tract No. 587, recorded in Map Book 15, page 152, records of Los Angeles county, extending from the north line of Puente avenue to the present south line of Badillo avenue, and bounded as follows: Beginning at the southeast corner of lot 19, said tract No. 587; thence north in a direct line to a point in the east line of lot 9, said tract No. 587; distant thereon 11 feet south from the northeast corner of said lot 9; thence east in a direct line to a point in the west line of lot 10, said tract No. 587, distant thereon 11 feet south from the northwest corner of said lot 10; thence south in a direct line to the southwest corner of lot 20, said tract No. 587; thence west in a direct line to the point of beginning.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, made June 12, 1916.
H. J. LEIANDE,
County Clerk and ex-officio Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

HAPPY STUDENTS RECIPIENTS OF COVETED SCHOOL EMBLEMS.

The closing number on the program at the exercises held in the high school auditorium on Monday night was the presentation of the school emblem to all those students who during the year have participated in the school activities, athletic and debating, and successfully carried their other work.

The successful students were:

Group I. Students who have taken part in three athletic activities: Russell Sloan, football, track, and baseball.

Group II. Students who have taken part in two activities: James Hodges, football and baseball; Percy Jackson, football and baseball; Roy Harris, tennis and basketball.

Group III. Students who have taken part in one activity: Lee Bashore, football; Jesse Heath, football; Roland Shaver, football; Wm. Warren, track; Henry Hepner, baseball; DeWitt Dorrner, baseball; Wilber Speer, tennis; Eulalia Bainbridge, tennis; Helen Bainbridge, tennis; Mary Temple, tennis; Hazel Potter, tennis; Lucile Matthews, basketball; Maude Beatty, basketball; Eda Beatty, basketball; Lucinda Beatty, basketball; Dana Goodnight, basketball.

The relay cup was won by the senior class, Douglas Wiley, William Warren, Russell Sloan, Roland Shaver.

The tennis cup by Eulalia Bainbridge, Russell Sloan, Mary Temple, Wilber Speer.

The girls' basketball cup, league championship, was won by Maude Beatty, Eda Beatty, Lucinda Beatty, Lucile Matthews, Dana Goodnight.

The inter-class basketball banner was won by the junior class by default. The debating cups, 11-12, won by juniors, Mildred Berry, Lester Seib; 9-10, won by sophomores, Milton Phillips, Freedom Olsen.

Pin for public speaking, Wilbur Nye.

In the inter-scholastic school leagues Covina high succeeded in winning this year: first place in girls' basketball; second place in boys' basketball; second place in boys' tennis; second place in baseball; second place in debating; second place in public speaking; and third place in girls' tennis.

M. E. SUNDAY-SCHOOL AT LONG BEACH TUESDAY.

The First Methodist Sunday-school of this place will picnic at Long Beach next Tuesday, June 27. All who wish to join are earnestly requested to meet with the school at the church and leave Covina promptly at 9 a.m. All automobiles and trucks will move in procession. Dinner will be served on reaching the grounds. A general good time is planned for the day.

The sports of the day will include 100-yard dash, boys; 50-yard dash, girls; sack race; three-legged race; hippodrome race; bean race; 100-yard dash in which the contestants will be Dr. C. F. Fingerle, F. B. Gillette, and R. T. Chew.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NOTES.

The grammar school graduating exercises will take place Friday evening, at sunset, from six to seven, on the grammar school lawn, when Mr. Morgan will present the diplomas to the thirty-seven graduates.

A very informal class-day program will take place in the assembly room on Thursday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, followed by the planting of the class tree.

The graduating class party, at the home of Mrs. Ida Ames, on Badillo street, was a great success. Our delightful hostess, assisted by her daughter, Dorothy, and Miss Hostetter, made the evening a pleasant one.

Mr. Sterling took his agricultural class to the hills south of town on Wednesday for a field lesson.

MAGGIE AND A MYSTERY.

The Dark Secret Was Revealed After the Maid Had Gone.

"And so," said one north Pennsylvania street matron to another, "you let Maggie go?"

"Yes, and I made the mistake of my life, but I came to be afraid of her." "Afraid of her, for goodness' sake! Why, she always seemed so quiet!" "You noticed perhaps that she always had one or two lead pencils stuck in her hair? Well, we began to find pencil marks everywhere—on the paper lining the pantry shelves, on the packages that came from the butcher and the grocer—the strangest, most mysterious marks."

"Well, I never!"

"Yes, I had read of thieves marking on gateposts and all that kind of thing—the way they gave information to each other. So I let her go. One day when my brother Fred was here I told him about it and showed him some of the pencil marks. Then he laughed and read them right off. One of the markings said:

"Don't forget to tell her we need mustard, macaroni and cheese."

"Another was interpreted by Fred to read, 'Two quarts of milk for Sunday,' and another, 'Bluing and salsoda.' 'Why,' said Fred, 'that's shorthand and mighty good shorthand at that. Sister, you have let a bird go.'—Indianapolis News.

GREAT MARKETS OF PARIS.

Buyers in the "Halles" May Not Carry Parcels of Any Kind.

There are some queer customs and regulations in the "halles," the great Paris central markets. No buyer is allowed to enter or leave the markets carrying a parcel, however small it may be. To carry parcels is the privilege of the porters of these markets. Quaint figures are they in baggy velvet trousers, blue striped jerseys and big brimmed, round leather hats. They alone can be employed to convey from the market to the street outside your merchandise, whether it be half a beef or only a good fat hen.

Madame has to help in her purchases market women known as the keepers. These women sit at the entrance to the main division of the markets and for a small fee watch over all purchases brought to them. Many of these "salesladies" are wealthy. A portly dame, a small seller, wears a fine pair of diamonds in her ears and a sparkling solitaire on her ring finger. Another character at the markets is the "cutter." When a sheep is brought to him by the buyer for half a dozen Paris housekeepers he cuts the animal into six portions and divides it among them. The purchasers draw lots for the best pieces and pay according to value received.—Exchange.

On Modern Man.

"The late Emerson Taylor, our consul at Port of Spain," said a Washington official, "hailed from Dry Run, and he had a fund of happy Dry Run humor."

"Taylor once compared a disgruntled brother consul to a Dry Run housewife."

"This woman," he said, "often took a queer, disgruntled view of things. Thus she said one day:

"I don't think the prodigal son was so bad, after all."

"He wa'n't no good to his family," said her husband."

"That's a fact," said the Dry Run woman. "But when he got home, all the same, he knowed enough to keep his mouth shut. If he'd been like the twentieth century man the first thing he'd done would 'a' been to find fault with the way the fatted calf was cooked."—Pittsburgh Press.

Languages in Switzerland.

Both French and German are the "official" languages of Switzerland. Public signs, such as those of railroads, are printed in both languages. Italian is also spoken in those parts of Switzerland which are closest to Italy. As a matter of fact, the country is, however, quite definitely divided as to language. The cantons of Vaud, Neuchatel, Geneva, Fribourg and most of Valais speak French. The canton of Ticino speaks Italian. The rest of the country speaks preponderantly German. The canton of Valais has different districts, where each of the three languages is spoken.

Film Realism.

"Do you suppose that was a real brick he hit that man with?" asked the sweet young thing as she and her young man sat watching the motion picture comedy.

"Of course it was," replied her escort. "You don't suppose after paying an actor $10,000 a week they'd be such tightwads as to ring in a fake brick on him, do you?"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Trees of Alaska.

The two national forests of Alaska contain about 78,000,000,000 feet of merchantable timber, and it is estimated by the forest service that more than 800,000,000 feet could be cut every year forever without lessening the forests' productivity.—Tree Talks.
